“ My children & and I considered you our uncle Frankie. From the time I was 15 and met you as a friend of my uncle til all the times you drove my children and their grandma back and forth to church services, we all loved you and still do. You were always ready to talk with us about God or anything else life had thrown at us. You were deeply considerate and absolutely loving to not just us but so many young people and people of all ages. You were a wellspring of knowledge and wisdom and always made us feel like you were firmly on our side. You definitely didn't hold back when we were in the wrong and your advice was spot on. You will be missed Uncle Frankie. I know you are in a much better place now. Til we meet on that soon to come day, we love you. My condolences to all your family & friends. Lisa Miller Shaw

“ When you can say that you've had a friendship with someone for over 50 years isn't bragging. My friendship with Frankie J and my sister, your only sister, Clara Harvey Tucker is because we care, respected and love each other. Growing up with both Frankie and Clara are memories that I will always have and they as well. I know Clara's heart is heavy and she will get thru this. Frankie I'm sorry that your last couple years were full of unnecessary turmoil. As a your friend "if" I knew, know that I would have been there sooner vs. later. Know that you had "family" that loved and cared enough to make sure that you were properly cared for. You took your final walk to your next journey. You are now at peace. Karma comes for us all and it's not a mistake. It's a reminder that "we" are all taught to respect and treat each other with kindness regardless of our faults. RIH you will be missed! Tracey

“ To my only Uncle Frank Harvey Jr. I will always love and remember you... you reminded me so much of grandma with your patience, caring, and loving spirit. I glad your in a better place where your safe now from people that meant you no good, GOD don't make no mistakes and truth will reveal itself one day. I am the niece that will watch out for my mother your "only" sister (Clara). May the evils of those who weren't with you for the right reasons get their day and the greed of those get what they deserve and may GOD continue to watch over your family as he's always done...until we meet again, Love your niece, Heather!!!!

“ Thank you, dad, for showing me to fight for truth, right wrongs, and stand firm in the face of adversity. To be of solid character, even when the evil world blinds those around me. To not be burdened with the love of money, wrapped in greed and present as a gift, but to see that worldly treasures are temporal and the gift of friends and family holds more value than any paper or coin. To look at my imperfections as an opportunity to grow. To take mistakes as a time to apologize and to show change. (for Star Trek, Chess, and showing me how to fix things.)

We live as imperfect beings in an imperfect world, striving to be the best version of our flawed selves, and we will inevitably fall short. Only by repentance and God's grace can we become a better version of what we were yesterday, are today, and will be tomorrow. Therefore, I ask God to show vengeance and forgive those that have transgressed against you in your last days. In doing so, remake the broken, heal the hurt, and get rid of the evil through light and truth, revealing all.

*You have won your last fight, and now you can rest in the arms of the Almighty. Love you, dad; I will miss you. Your loving daughter-
Ellen*

I work with Frank for a time at Colgate. He was always doing what was right by his conscience and for others. I thought of him just a few days before his passing, hoping to see him again. I hope I'm counted worthy to meet again with my old work buddy.
