“ Very hard to believe when I heard the news.... Haven't seen Langdon since she was in school and friends with my daughter. I can still hear the two of them singing Kesha songs in my back seat as I took them to the bowling alley. She was a sweet and bright light to say the least and I am so happy to have known her. I am truly so sorry for your loss.

“ I still just cannot believe this. Can't wrap my head around it. Don't want to believe it. But none of that makes it untrue. Langdon was a gem, a firecracker, someone who left a lasting impression to all she met. Her sharp wit, her joy, even her sarcasm, I will miss. I am broken hearted. My thoughts and prayers will be with her family for a long time, and for my son Matt, who had a special bond with her. I pray for peace and comfort for all touched by her.
