“ Ron, the day I met you I knew you were real, and I admire that about you. Despite the rough edges, I could see your heart, and heart is not the norm for most people. Thank you for loving my husband, Brad, through the rough spots of his life and for welcoming me into the family when you had the chance. You lived a big life that touched our home in ways you will never know. Brad remembers you by telling stories, and I have yet to hear them all. Know we love you and miss you very much. May God rest your soul.

“ In My PocketI have memories in my pocket.They rattle among the change.My memories of you are treasures I carry wherever I go.They are stored in bits and pieces, parts of a beautiful wholeThey give me comfort when I think I am alone.Yes, I have memories in my pocket, like so much other stuff I keep there.But of all the treasures I have, it's the memories of you that are the most precious.By Lamaretta Simmons
