“ Ronald A. Paul. RAP. A telephone man's Telephone Man. Kind, cheerful, and capable. Ronnie didn't come to work -- he came To Work. Pat joked that he returned home every evening either muddy or bloody, and sometimes, both. No job was too tough, too dirty, or too tedious. Ronnie took them all in stride. His battles with wildlife were epic. His telling of being discovered in the act of choking a black squirrel by an irate customer brought our crew to tears. And then there were the hated bats in the boots on Macedonia Road that found him down in Pleasant Valley more often than he liked. Oh, RAP, what a man you were. My condolences to Ronnie's family. He loved you dearly. Phyllis Biller
